

Detlef F. Sprinz is Senior Scientist at PIK—Potsdam Institute for Climate Impact Research, Germany, and a Professor at the Faculty of Economics and Social Sciences at the University of Potsdam, Germany. During 2024-2025, he leads the project “AMaReNa - A Market for the Restoration of Nature.”

He received a Ph.D. and a M.A. in Political Science from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI, USA, as well as a M.A. (“Diplom-Volkswirt”) in Economics from the University of the Saarland, Saarbrücken, Germany. He coordinated a research group at the Käte Hamburger Kolleg, Centre for Global Cooperation Research, located at the University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany, on credible commitment to long-term policy from January-August 2017. During the academic year 2017-18, Detlef Sprinz served as Rice Faculty Fellow & Visiting Professor in the European Studies Council, Whitney and Betty MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies, the Department of Political Science, and the Yale School of Forestry & Environmental Studies (now: Yale School of the Environment), Yale University, New Haven, CT, USA. During 2020-2022, he held a Tandem Fellowship by the German Stifterverband to create a course on “Sustainable and Collaborative Decision-Making in Business and Politics – An Interdisciplinary and Prediction-Based Course,” and in 2022-2023, he was a Visiting Researcher at the University of Lund, Lund, Sweden.

His areas of research and publications encompass climate policy at various levels, long-term policy, inter/national institutions & the evaluation of their performance, European & international environmental policy, and modeling political decisions. He served as guest editor of the special issue of Global Environmental Politics on “Long-term Environmental Policy” (2009), co-editor of International Relations and Global Climate Change (The MIT Press, 2001), Models, Numbers, and Cases: Methods for Studying International Relations (The University of Michigan Press, 2004), and Global Climate Policy - Actors, Concepts, and Enduring Challenges (The MIT Press, 2018) - in addition to numerous journal articles. As a Lead Author of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change’s (IPCC) Sixth Assessment Report, Working Group III, he co-authored chapter 14 on “international cooperation.”

Detlef Sprinz has taught international relations, international environmental policy, and social science methodology at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI, USA; Yale University, New Haven, CT, USA; the University of Oslo, Norway; the University of Potsdam, Germany; in the joint MA program in International Relations (MAIB) of the Free University Berlin, Humboldt University of Berlin, and the University of Potsdam; in the Master of Public Management (MPM) program of the University of Potsdam, as well as at the University of Zurich, Switzerland.

During 2009-2012, Detlef Sprinz served as Chairman of the Scientific Committee of the European Environment Agency in Copenhagen, Denmark. He was a member of the International Advisory Committee of MILEN—Environmental Change and Sustainable Energy, University of Oslo, Norway (2010-2013), a Senior Research Fellow at CICERO—Center for International Climate and Environmental Research—Oslo, Norway (2011-2013), and a Research Affiliate at ESSCA School of Management, Angers, France (2020-2024). Detlef Sprinz is a member of the European Academy, Bad Neuenahr-Ahrweiler, Germany; a member of the Academy for Excellence in University Teaching (Akademie Ausgezeichnete Hochschullehre) (Germany), co-founded Ecologic Institute; and provides consultancy services to companies, governments, international institutions, research institutes, and think tanks. He also serves on a range of advisory boards of national, European, and international projects, journals, and institutions. See www.sprinz.org for details.